

Desiring-Machine I

Installation/ Performance
Milk, steel, fabrics, hose, ac motor

Desiring-Machine I (y/o la reencarnación femenina de Sisífo) is a durational performance and an installation comprised by a simple mechanical machine that runs a hose carrying milk. On one side of the machine there is a small space made with cloth curtains. On the other side the milk is slowly dripping outside the machine from the end of a plastic hose. Wearing her skirt attached to the wrists, the artist attempts to collect as much milk as she can. Once her dress is full of milk, she walks behind the curtains and pours back the milk. Then, she returns and begins the action again.
